Session 05: Cultivating Teacher Resiliency Through Self-Care (PK-12)

Presenters:

- Maghan Kirschner, Charlotte IC
- Patricia McRhoads, Charlotte IC
- Jenna Busam, UNC Chapel Hill IC

Description:

Various studies show new teachers leaving the profession at alarming rates, ranging from 17 percent to 44 percent. As Elena Aguilar states, resilience is a “way of being” that allows us to bounce back quickly from adversity, stronger than before, so that we can fulfill our purpose in life. A substantial amount of our ability to be resilient is fostered in our daily habits. In this session, participants will focus on strategies from Aguilar’s work that will help teachers build resilience and thrive in their profession.
